

Council Member Sees Improvements in Neighborhood

Thursday, 22 August 2013 17:18

Neighborhood revitalization may actually be working in La Crosse. City council member Audrey Kader, who represents areas of the troubled neighborhood around Viterbo, says she's even seen it in the number of people showing up at meetings for the Powell Hood Hamilton neighborhood association. Used to be just five or six. But that's been steadily growing

\(Click for Audio\)

Kader thinks neighborhood revitalization is the one area the city actually has made significant progress over the last couple of years.