

It was one professor who got in hot water over a politically charged email to students at UW-La Crosse. But co-chair of the UWL college republicans, Hannah Besson, says that professor is far from alone in her obvious political leanings

Rachel Slocum's email pinning blame for the government shutdown on Tea Party Republicans gained the geography professor national attention and an internal reprimand.