

Wisconsin high school students will have to take more math and science courses, under a bill that was passed in the state Senate today. Dr. Kris Mueller with the La Crosse School District talked to us about the vote.

\(Click for Audio\)

Lawmakers of both parties supported the measure, in which students will have to take three credits each of math and science instead of the current two.