

Woman Faces New Charges for Old Crime

Monday, 02 December 2013 12:34

Some knife play this week-end may mean extra trouble for a La Crosse woman for a crime never reported. Cops say 33 year-old Stephanie Eckert got into a fight with her boyfriend on Saturday and cut his sweatshirt up with a butcher knife. While he was wearing it. Cops arrested Eckert for that and found out that the last time she went after the guy in August, she actually stuck him pretty good in the chest but they managed to patch it up without going to the hospital. Neither can remember what that argument was about.
