

La Crosse's rental registration and inspection process may need some major revamping. Governor Walker has signed into law legislation that restricts the ability of municipalities to regulate rental properties. A really bad thing for the city depending on the impact of the law, says La Crosse mayor Tim Kabat \(Click for Audio\) The rental law changes come at a time when the city council is on the verge of considering new rules that could have led to more significant fines for not registering rental properties in a timely way.
