

A major expansion of Agropur in the La Crosse interstate industrial park gets a review today. The city planning commission reviews plans for a 34 thousand square foot expansion of the Canadian-based ingredients company formerly known as Main Street ingredients. It's unclear what would be the value of the plant expansion or how exactly it would impact job creation at the company. The expansion plans have been recommended for approval by the city's planning department.