

On Thursday, the Center For Disease Control released two reports that sound an alarm on health care associated infections. They happen almost daily. Patients go in the hospital and some come out with infections. Melissa Moran at Mayo in La Crosse says they are watchful of this all the time.

\(Click for Audio\)

Moran says typically, these infections are a result of unhygienic practices at medical facilities, including ambulatory surgical centers, hospice centers, nursing homes and rehabilitation centers.