

Woman Accused in Drunk Stabbing, Beer Involved

Tuesday, 19 October 2010 12:02

A La Crosse woman is in hot water for stabbing her boyfriend. Police say Ann Bolling went after her man at their place on Mormon Coulee Road early Monday morning. They say she was pretty drunk. And the victim was drunk. In fact, the homeless guy who had crashed there for the night was drunk. And cops say the 48 year-old Bolling went out for more beer after she stabbed her guy and then came back with the beer in time to get arrested. There appears to be no real clear motive for the stabbing although Bolling did express frustration that the victim was always on her to go buy more beer. Police say they recovered a 12 inch knife at the scene. There was blood, bits of flesh and some hair on the blade.