

Vinehout To Stay In Land Of Lincoln

Thursday, 24 February 2011 13:26 -

She's not coming back any time soon....and though rumors are swirling that some Wisconsin Democratic Senators may have slipped back to their homes....Kathleen Vinehout says they are all staying put in secret areas of Illinois.

Vinehout is one of 13 democratic senators to skip town last week to delay indefinitely the Senate's ability to take up the Governor's budget repair bill. They have vowed to stay away until Walker agrees to make a compromise, something he has been unwilling to do. She says they won't budge.

Vinehout told WIZM news from her hideout in Illinois that a power grab is a main focal point here.

The Alma Senator says the state patrol never visited her home today as was reported.....and her husband and children are holding down the fort til she gets home.....whenever that is.
