

Robbery Suspect Sought, Hair Could be Key

Best lead that La Crosse police have on a robbery suspect could be his hair. Cops say some thug broke through the door of a place on the city's southside on Friday evening. Guy brandished a gun, forced a man and a woman into the bathroom and made off with a safe. The robbery victims describe the guy as black, tall and thin with hair in corn rows and pony tails sprouting from the top. So far they don't have a name but the guy seemed to know somebody who lived there and appeared to know what he was after. In the safe: five hundred bucks and a handgun.
