

Will Shilling Run For Senate?

Monday, 04 April 2011 09:01 -

Wisconsin Democrats took 21,700 signatures to Madison on Friday.....if 15,600 are validated, they will have taken the next step to recall Senator Dan Kapanke. Kapanke is one of eight Republican state senators they're seeking to oust for backing the governor's divisive union rights law.

So if a recall election is called for, who would run against him? Possibly State Representative Jennifer Shilling? Since you know...she has been asked before.

Shilling says 20 thousand people signing the petitions shows that people want new leadership....but until the signatures are verified, she says no go.....for now.

Friday's filing is the first among efforts to recall eight Republican and eight Democratic senators over their support or opposition to Republican Governor Scott Walker's law that would strip most public workers of collective bargaining rights.
