

Kapanke Listening Session a Potential Target for Democrats

Wednesday, 20 April 2011 11:48 -

Local democrats plan a big turnout at a listening session held by a republican state senator today. A email circulated among democrats urge members to show up at the Dan Kapanke listening session from 4:30 to 6 at the Holmen Village Community Room. It's the first listening session Kapanke's held since canceling a couple last month after receiving death threats. The democratic party email urges members to keep Kapanke's "feet to the fire and ask him the tough questions he's been hiding from for the last month." Kapanke faces a recall election sometime this summer although he's currently challenging the recall petition.
