

College students often celebrate the end of a semester. Not all of them lose their pants. La Crosse police say they found a 22 year old guy passed out in the stairwell of a downtown parking ramp at around five Saturday morning. He was in boxers, t-shirt and socks. Said he'd gone downtown as a post-school celebration the night before. Not sure where his pants went or the cell phone or wallet that were inside the missing trousers. About three hours after bartime he still blew a .15. Cops gave the student a public intoxication warning and a ride home.
