

Are all eyes are on the State of Wisconsin, again? It all started with Governor Scott Walker scrapping collective bargaining rights, which set off large scale demonstrations statewide. Then summer recalls of state senators opened the state back up to the country. Now...if Governor Scott Walker is recalled.....history would be made for the 3rd time.....only 2 governor's have ever been recalled. We asked UW-Lacrosse Political Professor, Joe Heim, if all eyes are watching again.

And Heim says with the state being opened up like this...it may make some that wanted to move here or start a business here think twice. Heim says the state cannot afford that to happen.
