

Air Quality Watch Again Today

Thursday, 11 March 2010 09:54 -

A little more wind today but air quality still a concern in much of Wisconsin. The DNR has issued an air quality watch for 54 counties in the state. High concentrations of particulate matter. Joe Hoch, meteorologist with the DNR, says the warm temps and light winds continue to contribute to unfavorable air quality conditions. La Crosse, Trempealeau, Vernon and Monroe counties are all covered by the air quality watch.
