

Investigation Turns Up Potentially Key Evidence in Liquor Theft

Monday, 19 December 2011 16:35 -

Thieves ripping off thousands of dollars in booze have left a trail for police to follow in La Crosse. Cops are investigating the theft of cases of beer, wine and liquor from the Pettibone Resort this week-end. They say the crooks pried open a door and stole the booze and left shoeprints and tire tracks in the snow. They also left what could turn out to be the lynchpin in the investigation. A frozen puddle of urine. Cops have collected the urine to test for DNA.