

Snow Fans Here It Comes

Wednesday, 11 January 2012 12:50 -

It's been a mild winter so far especially in southern Wisconsin, but that is about to change.

A significant winter storm will hit Wisconsin later tonight and will continue thru Friday that could impact travel. The National Weather Service is predicting southeast and south central Wisconsin could receive 6-9 inches of snow.

In addition, some parts of extreme northern Wisconsin could see a foot of snow.