

Lawmaker Says Wetlands Law Goes Too Far

Thursday, 01 March 2012 22:16 -

Flooding fears expressed by some lawmakers over a new wetlands law in Wisconsin. Onalaska state rep Steve Doyle is among the crowd of legislators who voted against new rules that will make it easier for developers to fill in wetlands to build on. Doyle says he's got lots of problems with the law's provisions

Governor Walker signed the new wetland regulations into law yesterday.