

Think you're paying alot in water and sewer charges now? Just wait until La Crosse has to upgrade the sewage treatment plant to deal with increased restrictions on phosphorous releases. It's plenty of equipment and facility upgrades. Very costly, according to the most recent estimates city water utility manager Mark Johnson has received

Sewage treatment plant improvements could be required to deal with the phosphorous mandates in just a few years.