

Those random traffic stops can sure turn into something for La Crosse cops. Police say they pulled over a big SUV late last week after an officer ran the plates on the car just to see what might pop up. They pulled Eugene Shields over and made a pretty good hit. They say the 29 year-old was carrying some morphine tabs, some crack cocaine and some marijuana, along with 13 hundred dollars in cash. All of it, cops say, peg Shields as a dealer. He's been charged accordingly.
