

Geva Thole has stepped down from the Executive Director of the La Crosse Public Education Foundation position to pursue a full time teaching position in the School District of La Crosse.

Her replacement is Timothy Riley, who was serving as the executive director of The Trout Museum of Art in Appleton. He said knowing about the foundation before hand was one key to him applying for the position.

Riley also served as Board President of the Appleton Education Foundation. He assumed his new role as executive director on July 9th.
