

There's been calls for a special session for Wisconsin legislators. The hope is that special session would focus on job creation in the state. But Holmen state assembly candidate, Bruce Evers doesn't think a special legislative session would come to much. Unless it was focused on business de-regulation

Evers hopes to face democrat state rep, Steve Doyle in the fall. He has to get past an August primary against West Salem's Kevin Hintz first.