

Charges Still Possible in Money Creek Campfire Accident

Friday, 27 July 2012 08:24 -

No charges yet in a campfire accident that left four children burned at an area campground back in June. Houston county sheriff Doug Ely says he's getting close to wrapping up the investigation into the June 29th fire at Money Creek Haven Campground. A man apparently dumped some sort of accelerant onto a smoldering campfire, causing the fuel container to explode and burning the children. Four year-old Chloe Langen suffered the worst of the burns and flirted with death a few times before stabilizing at a burn center in St Paul. Five year-old Annabelle Heyer was also burned badly and was flown to a hospital in Madison.