

Wanna talk hot? La Crosse has all summer and it's one for the record books.

The National Weather Service said La Crosse had its warmest July ever, with an average temperature of just under 80 degrees. That's one tenth of a degree higher than the previous record of 79 and a half set in 1936. The average high in La Crosse was just over 91 degrees last month – and it got above 100 twice, on July 4th and 6th. Rainfall varied throughout Wisconsin, and the Weather Service said La Crosse got just over two inches for the month, about two and a quarter inches below normal.
