

Drunk Driver Convicted In July Cycle Crash

Thursday, 04 October 2012 12:23 -

A drunk driving suspect is not pleading guilty...because he says he can't remember the accident he caused.

But David Carlson of La Crosse pleads 'no contest' to crashing his motorcycle, while drunk, in the town of Farmington. Carlson and a teenage passenger were hurt in the July accident. He's been arrested on O-W-I charges about a dozen times in the past. Judge Todd Bjerke says there's enough evidence to find Carlson guilty.

Carlson's blood alcohol just after the cycle crash was measured at .17.
