

Wisconsin will continue to have five Republicans and three Democrats in the US House. All seven of the state's incumbents were re-elected yesterday. But should they walk away happy? UW-L Political Professor, Joe Heim, says no.

\(Click for Audio\)

And that means?

\(Click for Audio\)

The GOP will have at least a 17 to 16 majority in the senate and they came into Tuesday's elections with a 20 vote majority and their control of the Assembly was never threatened.