Police have found the guy who they say stole a van and rammed into a building on La Crosse's northside on Friday. Police say 17-year-old Clifton Traywick was behind the wheel of the stolen construction van that drove past the police department downtown on Friday night. Cops chased Traywick to the northside and he hit up to 80 miles per hour before he missed a turn on Monitor street and slammed into the Sir Speedy building causing significant damage. Traywick says he didn't know the van was stolen and only ran from police because he doesn't have driver's license.
