

Stay home if you can. That's the word from 3 local County Highway Commissioners this morning as blowing and drifting snow is playing havoc with snowplow drivers.

In La Crosse County, Ron Chamberlain says plows have been out since 3:30 this morning and most roads are being reported as snow covered and slick.

In Monroe County, Jack Dittmar, says they have been out since 1 this morning but drifting is the major concern now....especially on ridge roads. And in Winona County, Aaron Lefee tells us that they have been attacking the snow since 4.....and again blowing and drifting is the concern for the rest of today.

At the La Crosse Airport.....both flights out this morning are on time.
