

Food cart vendors in downtown La Crosse will still be welcome. But new regulations regarding those carts will give those vendors a lot more to think about. The city council this week begins consideration of new rules for hotdog and other food carts. Among those rules: hours of operations limits so that carts don't turn into all night eateries

\(Click for Audio\)

James Cherf represents the downtown on the city council. Food carts face very few regulations in the city currently.