

Unusual Behavior Caused Concern About Gun-Carrying Man At UWL

A student behaving strangely, and carrying a gun, got the attention of U-W-L campus police today...

They arrested a man with a shotgun after he had gone into one classroom building at the university. No shots were fired, and he had no ammunition with him. But Chancellor Joe Gow was concerned about the man, who came to campus dressed in an 'odd' fashion.

The student, whose name has not been released, had visited campus police early in the morning, saying he didn't want Gow or other university officials calling his parents. Officers followed him home to observe him...and were alerted when he returned to campus.
