La Crosse County Administrator Steve O'Malley is hospitalized after having an apparent seizure during a county board meeting on Monday night.

The 55-year-old O'Malley collapsed in his chair shortly after finishing a presentation to the board about an offer on the county's Park Plaza property. Paramedics were called in to take O'Malley to La Crosse's Mayo Medical Center. He was conscious and sitting up as a medical crew took him from the basement board room at the county administration building. The board meeting was adjourned quickly after O'Malley was removed from the room.
