

Let freedom ring. Jackson county D-A Gerald Fox says it's past time. At least in his county. Citing this week's supreme court ruling affirming the right of individuals to arm themselves under the Constitution's second amendment, Fox says he's identified a number of state statute's regulating guns that he can no longer prosecute for. The state's statute regulating loaded guns in cars. The one about carrying a gun in a bar. Or in public buildings. Or the big whopper; the law that prohibits people in Wisconsin from carrying concealed weapons. All of those, says Fox, are now simply unconstitutional.
