

Local Musician Busted For Drunken Break-in of Truck

Monday, 26 August 2013 11:22 -

A local blues musician might be able to sing more of them now. La Crosse Cops say Dave Orr was busted this week-end after breaking into the back of an old military truck in a parking lot on King street. When confronted by the owner, cops say Orr swung at and hit the guy with a metal pipe. The owner managed to keep Orr there wielding his own stick. Police say Orr was so drunk when they got there, he needed help to get out of the truck. Later at the jail, cops say Orr couldn't remember what he had done.