

Hey Buddy, Got Any Gypsum?

Thursday, 22 July 2010 08:37 -

A drug dealer wannabee still faces charges for dealing even though he had no actual drugs to sell.

La Crosse police say they nabbed Wesley Tyson from La Crescent during a traffic stop downtown near city hall early this morning. the 45 year-old Tyson was the passenger in a car driven by a drunk guy. They found bags of white powder on Tyson. Tested the stuff for cocaine, heroin and meth. All negative. Turns out, Tyson had crumbled up some drywall. Says he was going to try and sell it as crack. As he said, just to make a few bucks.