

The push to continue secrecy in Wisconsin politics has begun. Two groups from opposite ends of the political spectrum have filed a federal lawsuit to block a new state law that forces groups doing political advertising to disclose where they get their money from. No surprise to Wisconsin Democracy Campaign's Mike McCabe. He says there's liberal interests and conservative interests alike who not only want to spend as much as they want on political campaigns but also want to do it in secret. Liberal group, One Wisconsin Now and conservative-oriented, Wisconsin Club for Growth are trying to block the new disclosure rules
