A registered sex offender is pleading 'not guilty' to charges that could lead to more than 100 years in prison...

Bryon (brian) Olsen could get a minimum of 36 years behind bars, if he's found guilty on sexual assault and child porn charges. Olsen was just charged last month with first-degree sexual assault against a young girl, which police say happened months ago at Olsen's home. He had already been charged with taking cellphone pictures of a seven-year-old boy's private parts.
