

More Time In Jail

Tuesday, 07 December 2010 11:08 -

Sneaking drugs into jail can get you more time in the clink. It can also get someone killed.

That's the case with 25 year old Alexandra Lueck of Tomah. She was given five more months behind bars after a jail inmate died from snorting drugs she snuck in.

The woman pleaded no contest in Monroe County court to two counts in relation to delivering the drug Suboxone to 37 year old Adrianna Seroy back in January. Lueck snuck the drug back into the jail after being released for Huber privileges.

Seroy died on January 26th of what is now being called a mixed drug overdose. Suboxone is used to treat opiate addiction.