A "tragic moment"....."they shot themselves in the financial foot and "economic suicide." All phrases being used by Wisconsin Democrats today as the news came down that the U.S. Department of Transportation will take back $810 million in federal high-speed rail funding that Wisconsin received.

Representative Jennifer Shilling says it's a tragic time for the state and Governor Elect Scott Walker just cost this state thousands of new jobs.

The monies will now be reallocated to several states including California, Florida, Washington, Illinois, New York, and Iowa.
