

No More Order Forms for Girl Scouts

Monday, 31 January 2011 13:36 -

Do you ever order Girl Scout cookies and hate the wait for them to arrive? Well in some areas that wait is no more.

The Girl Scouts of Minnesota and the Wisconsin River Valleys are no longer using order forms – and the girls will have their cookies on hand instead.

Barbara Boelk says the Minnesota and western Wisconsin Girl Scouts hope to sell five-million boxes of cookies this season, and become the world's largest cookie program. The Minnesota-Wisconsin chapter has around 63 thousand girls, parents and supporters making it the 8th largest chapter in the country.

Sales begin Saturday for Winona and Houston Counties.
